How to read this

43 of the 106 scenes change: 8 are rewritten, 31 revised and 4 cut. The other 63 stay exactly as you wrote them, so they aren't reproduced here.

Scene numbers match the worksheet. Dialogue uses the worksheet's layout (NAME: line), so it can go straight into the Changes boxes.

- Rewritten: the whole scene, written out. Where a scene says so, keep your own scene description.
- Revised: only what changes. Was / Now replaces a line. After or Before places new material next to one of your lines. Cut removes a line.
- Cut: the scene goes, with a note on where anything worth keeping moved.
- ... at the end of a line means the rest of it stays as you wrote it. The worksheet shows only the first words of each speech.

Change list

The 43 scenes that change, in scene order. The pages below follow the same order.

Scene	Change	What changes
1	Rewritten	Sakai presses the key into Mara's hand and her purse spills in the street. His line about her father goes. The killer returns to his car, so Mara reaches the bar first.
2	Rewritten	"Shitsurei shimasu" sends Mara behind the counter. A word on the killer's radio pulls him out before he looks.
6	Revised	Vera flickers on "Normal" and "Kanda? No." Ishida never says how Mara's name came up.
10	Revised	"Depends who's calling" becomes "Who calls me that?"

Scene	Change	What changes
11	Revised	“You’re too old to be...” becomes “You found enough twenty years ago.”
12	Revised	“Because they didn’t find it” is cut; Jack’s look does the work.
13	Cut	We find Mara alive with Jack, in 20. The voicemail moves to 20, the third stool to 56, “Everything is going” to 17.
14	Revised	“Disappear,” not “leave.” “People draw the places they want to go” is cut. Vera gives Jack the clip.
15	Revised	A Kurose Development hoarding with a painted plaza stands in front of the Hive.
17	Revised	Kaneko’s “Everything is going. We are just slower.” moves here.
20	Revised	Opens on Mara replaying Vera’s voicemail. Jack returns her sketchbook and shows the clip. Speaker fix, and “My passport.”
22	Revised	Vera tells Jack what the letter said: the police knew.
24	Cut	Kurose now arrives through the city (15), the model (51, 83), the tape (82) and his face (83).
27	Revised	Rain.
27A	Revised	“Where did you find the clip?” becomes “Show me where.”
28	Revised	Rain.
29	Revised	The locker receipts still come to her house. The top one names Kato Rental Lockers, Ueno.
36	Revised	The payphone explanation is cut.
51	Rewritten	Wordless: a hand lifts the Hive out of Kurose’s model. Ishida isn’t in the room.

Scene	Change	What changes
53	Revised	“Two that I saw.” Jack’s eyes go to Vera’s phone, and later he turns it face-down.
55	Revised	Vera remembers the way. Plants the dentist, the radio repairman and the old woman.
56	Revised	Kaneko shows Vera the third stool.
59	Rewritten	Jack is at a payphone calling Mrs. Sakai. It rings out while Vera talks; her empty house is intercut.
60	Revised	Mara gives Jack the key.
61	Revised	Ishida names the Hive. Jack catches it, Ishida covers with their past, and Jack lets it go.
63	Revised	Daniel’s notebook is in the locker.
64	Revised	Okada asks “The girl?” “You said that about my daughter” replaces “That’s what people say the night before.”
71	Revised	Kaneko and the old woman gather Mara’s drawings from the wet floor.
75	Revised	The empty crossing, its melody playing for no one.
76	Revised	Vera calls her mother and can’t speak.
78	Revised	Jack leaves the notebook at Vera’s door.
83	Revised	“You have his eyes” and “Money is vulgar” go. An envelope of cash. The model, with the Hive gone.
84	Revised	The drawings, dried flat on the futon.
86	Revised	Vera: “I know them.”
88	Revised	Vera leads through the dark.
89	Rewritten	Her hand finds his. The lighter stays unlit.
90	Revised	The old woman is waiting.

Scene	Change	What changes
94	Rewritten	Wordless: Ishida gets into the sedan.
97	Cut	The aftermath moves to 98 and to the television in 100.
98	Revised	Vera: “That’s what the police say it says.”
99	Cut	Folded into 99A.
99A	Rewritten	The plaza, built.
100	Rewritten	The television nobody watches. Vera on the third stool. Too much money.

Act One: scenes 1–29

The opening two scenes are rewritten, 13 and 24 are cut, and the other 13 are revised.

1 EXT. BACKSTREET, KANDA - NIGHT

Rewritten.

Rain. Not a storm. Just cold, steady, patient rain.

A narrow street of shuttered shops. A vending machine hums on the corner. High up, one lit window, a radio playing behind it.

MARA VOSS (24) stands in the dark doorway of a closed barber’s, soaked, no umbrella. Her phone lights up: VERA. She watches it ring.

MARA: Not tonight.

She declines it.

An OLD MAN (70s) comes slowly up the street in a good coat gone thin at the cuffs. He sees her in the doorway and stops. Something in his face gives way.

OLD MAN: Twenty years.

Behind him, a MASKED MAN steps out of the dark and makes a small, correct bow.

MASKED MAN: Shitsurei shimasu.

Two shots, flat and small in the rain. The Old Man folds onto the street.

The Masked Man touches his ear.

MASKED MAN: First position done. Moving to second.

He walks back the way he came, to a dark car idling at the far end of the street. He doesn't hurry. He never looks at the doorway.

Mara runs to the Old Man. Her bag slides off her shoulder and spills across the wet street. She doesn't notice.

MARA: Mr. Sakai?

MARA: It's okay -- I'll get someone -- Ambulance. I'll...

His hand comes out of his coat with something small and brass in it. He presses it into her palm and closes her fingers over it.

OLD MAN: Don't let them have it.

MARA: Have what? I don't --

He's gone. Rain in his open eyes.

In her hand: a small brass key on a stamped number tag.

The dark car pulls away and takes the long way round the block. At the other end of the street, the amber glow of a bar. Mara runs for it.

Behind her, on the street: her purse, open in the rain.

2 INT. SMALL BAR, KANDA - CONTINUOUS

Rewritten. Keep your scene description, then:

A man in a raincoat on the far stool, a notebook beside a beer gone flat: the JOURNALIST (40s). Nobody behind the counter. Crates clatter somewhere in the back.

Mara bursts in, the key in her fist.

JOURNALIST: Miss Voss?

He knows her name. Before she can answer, the door opens behind her. Rain noise.

MASKED MAN: Shitsurei shimasu.

The same words. Mara is behind the counter before she knows she's moved.

JOURNALIST: Where is he?

Two shots. On the high shelf, the television audience laughs.

Behind the counter, Mara folds herself into the gap between the crates and the ice bin. A hair clip slides out of her wet hair and skitters under the shelf. She doesn't breathe.

MASKED MAN: Second position done.

He takes one step toward the counter. A voice in his earpiece: one word. He turns and goes.

The door swings shut. The television laughs again.

6 INT. POLICE STATION, INTERVIEW ROOM - MOMENTS LATER

Revised.

- Was VERA: Normal. Now VERA (too quickly): Normal.
- After ISHIDA: Did she ever mention Kanda? Friends there? Work? — Vera's eyes go to the frosted window before she answers.
- Note: keep ISHIDA's "What I know is that two men were killed..." and the rest of the scene free of how the police connected Mara to Kanda. No purse, no witness, and nobody asks. On a second viewing, that silence is the first sign Ishida knows too much.

10 INT. JACK'S OFFICE - NIGHT

Revised.

- Was JACK: Depends who's calling. Now JACK: Who calls me that?

Vera's next line, "Mr. Okada. The bar in Kanda.", now answers him.

11 INT. JACK'S OFFICE - LATER

Revised.

- Was ISHIDA: Go to sleep, Jack. You're too old to be... Now ISHIDA: Go to sleep, Jack. You found enough twenty years ago.

12 EXT. BACKSTREET, KANDA - NIGHT

Revised.

- Cut JACK: Because they didn't find it.
- After JACK: Why come back? — Jack doesn't answer. He looks down the street at the drains, the doorways, the gutter: everywhere a small thing could fall.

13 INT. THE HIVE, NOODLE SHOP STOREROOM - NIGHT

Cut. We find Mara alive when Jack does, in 20.

- Vera's voicemail ("You left your umbrella...") moves to 20.
- KANEKO: Your father used to sit on the third stool. moves to 56, said to Vera.
- KANEKO: Everything is going. We are just slower. moves to 17.
- "Nobody comes here who isn't lost" and Mara's "She told me about this place" are dropped. Scene 14 already tells us where the drawing comes from.

14 INT. MARA'S APARTMENT - DAY

Revised.

- Was JACK: She wasn't planning to leave. Now JACK: She wasn't planning to disappear.
- Cut JACK: People draw the places they want to go.
- After VERA: Why? — the scene plays:

Jack doesn't answer. He looks at the drawing a moment too long.

Vera takes the hair clip out of her coat pocket and sets it on the sketchbook.

VERA: Take this too. It's mine. She stole it.

He takes both.

15 EXT. THE HIVE - DAY

Revised.

- After "Rain. A wide street of new glass towers and chain stores.":

Between two towers, a long white construction hoarding: KUROSE DEVELOPMENT, and a painted plaza full of smiling people who don't exist. Behind it, low and dark and patched, the Hive.

17 INT. KANEKO'S NOODLE COUNTER - CONTINUOUS

Revised.

- After KANEKO: I was already old. You were a boy in...:

KANEKO: Everything is going. We are just slower.

She looks past him, through the doorway, at the white hoarding across the street.

20 INT. THE HIVE, NOODLE SHOP STOREROOM - CONTINUOUS

Revised. The scene now opens:

Flour sacks. The futon. The bare bulb.

MARA sits on the futon with her knees up and her phone to her ear, listening.

VERA (V.O.): (voicemail) You left your umbrella. You'll get soaked. Just call...

The message ends. She plays it again.

Jack is in the doorway. She scrambles back against the wall.

Then as written, from JACK: My name is Jack. Your sister hired me.

- After MARA: Prove it. — Jack sets her sketchbook on a flour sack between them, with the hair clip on top.
- After MARA: It was never hers. Dad gave it to me.... — She pulls the sketchbook into her lap.
- Was JACK: Is she okay? Is she -- does she know... Now MARA: Is she okay? Is she -- does she know... (He doesn't answer, so she asks again: MARA: Is she okay? as written.)
- Was MARA: They have my purse. They know my name. They... Now MARA: They have my purse. My passport. They know my name. They...

22 INT. ALL-NIGHT NOODLE COUNTER, UNDER THE TRACKS - NIGHT

Revised.

- After VERA: I believe he was sad. I don't know if...:

VERA: A man wrote to me last week. He said Dad didn't do it. He said the police knew.

Jack keeps his eyes on his bowl.

Then JACK: What did you do? as written. First time through, this is Vera's confession. Second time, she's telling the man who signed the report.

24 INT. CHAIRMAN'S OFFICE, KUROSE DEVELOPMENT - NIGHT

Cut. Kurose now arrives through the city (the hoarding in 15), the model (51, 83), the tape (82) and his face (83). Nothing in 24 is needed later.

27 EXT. PEDESTRIAN CROSSING - DAY

Revised.

- After “A small intersection.”: Rain.

27A INT. SMALL BAR, KANDA - DAY

Revised.

- Was VERA: Where did you find the clip? Now VERA: Show me where.
- After it — Okada lifts the counter flap: the gap between the crates and the ice bin.
Then VERA: She was here. as written.

28 EXT. FISHING TOWN, BOSO COAST - DAY

Revised.

- After “Grey sea. Grey sky.”: Rain on the slipway.

29 INT. MRS. SAKAI'S HOUSE - DAY

Revised.

- Was MRS. SAKAI: Every January. Cash, in an envelope. Twenty years. Even... Now MRS. SAKAI: Every January. Cash, in an envelope. Twenty years. Even after he left, the receipts kept coming here.
- After MRS. SAKAI: He left these here. Maybe on purpose. — She takes a rubber-banded bundle of receipts from the altar drawer. The top one: KATO RENTAL LOCKERS, UENO.

Act Two: scenes 36–64

Two scenes are rewritten and eight revised. Together they give Jack a reason to trust Ishida, and the audience a reason not to.

36 INT. VERA'S APARTMENT - NIGHT

Revised.

- Was VERA: Where are you? You sound like you're calling from... Now VERA: Where are you?
- Was JACK: The countryside. There's no signal. I'm on a payphone.... Now JACK: The coast. An inn off the highway.

Then as written, from VERA: Did you find anything?

51 INT. CHAIRMAN'S OFFICE, KUROSE DEVELOPMENT - DAWN

Rewritten.

The fortieth floor. The glass walls grey with dawn. Nobody in the leather chairs.

The model of the redevelopment on its long table: glass towers, sponge trees, a broad white plaza. At the plaza's edge sits one small, dark, patched block, out of place among the towers. The Hive.

A man's hand, clean, with an expensive watch, lifts the Hive out of the model and sets it on a tray beside a cup of tea.

The plaza underneath is already finished. Tiny painted people cross it.

No Ishida, no dialogue. His allegiance stays a suspicion until his call in 72.

53 INT. VERA'S APARTMENT, BATHROOM - CONTINUOUS

Revised.

- Was JACK: Eight men. Masks. They didn't introduce themselves. Now JACK: Two that I saw. Masks. They didn't introduce themselves.
- After JACK: It was just an inn. — Jack's eyes go to Vera's phone on the edge of the bath, where it has sat all night in case Mara calls. He stops. Then VERA: What? as written.
- After JACK: I won't. — When she turns to wring out the cloth, he reaches over and turns her phone face-down.

55 INT. THE HIVE, PASSAGES - DAY

Revised.

- After your scene description:

At a turning she stops, then takes the left without looking, the way you take a stair you've climbed a thousand times. A hand-painted sign for a DENTIST, one flight up. A RADIO REPAIRMAN at his bench under a bare bulb glances up at her and back down. Through a half-open door, an OLD WOMAN watches sumo on a television the size of a bread box.

Vera puts her hand flat on the wall, low, where a child's hand would reach.

56 INT. KANEKO'S NOODLE COUNTER - CONTINUOUS

Revised.

- After VERA: You remember him?:

KANEKO: Your father used to sit on the third stool.

Vera looks at it. She moves along to it and sits.

Then KANEKO: And you. You ate everything on his plate. as written.

59 EXT. THE HIVE - CONTINUOUS

Rewritten.

Rain. By the Hive's narrow entrance, under a tin awning, a green public payphone. JACK stands at it with the receiver to his ear. It's ringing.

INTERCUT WITH:

INT. MRS. SAKAI'S HOUSE - SAME

The kotatsu. The altar. The television on with the sound off. A teacup on its side on the tatami. The phone rings in the empty room.

EXT. THE HIVE

Vera comes out of the Hive's narrow entrance, glowing.

VERA: Jack! It's still here. The noodle shop from the...

Jack keeps the receiver to his ear. It rings.

VERA: And I went to the newspaper. Harada, the editor....

JACK: Later.

VERA: Jack. A detective.

JACK: Later. Please.

It rings. Nobody answers. He hangs up.

VERA: When we find Mara, I'm bringing her here. She'll...

JACK: Yes.

60 INT. THE HIVE, NOODLE SHOP STOREROOM - NIGHT

Revised.

- After MARA: Find what it opens. And then this ends. — She takes the key from around her neck, on a shoelace, and puts it in his hand.

61 INT. ISHIDA'S CAR - NIGHT

Revised.

- After ISHIDA: Nine o'clock. The service road behind the Hive, by...:

Jack turns and looks at him. Ishida keeps his eyes on the rain on the windscreen.

ISHIDA: Where else would the Voss girl go? You took me there yourself. Twenty years ago.

Jack looks at Ishida's hands on the wheel. He doesn't ask.

Then JACK: I'll bring it to you. When she's safe. as written.

63 INT. KATO RENTAL LOCKERS, UENO - NIGHT

Revised.

- After your scene description:

Jack opens a locker with Mara's key. Inside: a padded envelope, taped shut. Under it, a small black notebook, water-stained, its cover gone soft with age.

He opens the notebook. English handwriting. On the flyleaf: DANIEL VOSS.

He closes it. The notebook goes inside his coat. The envelope he carries in his hand.

64 INT. SMALL BAR, KANDA - NIGHT

Revised.

- After OKADA: Behind the counter. Like the girl's clip.:

OKADA: The girl?

- Was JACK: Tomorrow it'll be over. Now JACK: Safe. Tomorrow it'll be over.
- Was OKADA: That's what people say the night before. Now OKADA: You said that about my daughter.

Okada asks "The girl?" again in 81, and this time Jack doesn't answer. That's the one that should land.

Act Three: scenes 71–100

Four scenes are rewritten, including the ending, 97 and 99 are cut, and ten are revised. Vera now leads the escape, and the film ends on the third stool.

71 INT. THE HIVE, PASSAGE - CONTINUOUS

Revised.

- After MARA: Tell her. (her last line):

Doors open along the passage. Faces in the bulb light: the RADIO REPAIRMAN in his vest, the OLD WOMAN from the sumo room, KANEKO running, still in her apron.

Mara's cloth bag has split open on the floor. Rice balls. A toothbrush. The cardigan. Pages of drawings, soaking in the thin shining stream that runs along the floor.

While Jack holds Mara, Kaneko kneels and begins, very carefully, to pick up the pages. The old woman kneels beside her and helps.

75 INT./EXT. VARIOUS - NIGHT - SERIES OF SHOTS

Revised.

- After the last of your frames:

The pedestrian crossing from 27 and 62. Empty. The signal turns green for no one, and the old melody CHIMES across the wet street, all the way to the end.

76 INT. VERA'S APARTMENT - NIGHT

Revised. This assumes their mother is alive; if she isn't, skip it.

- After "Darkness. Rain on the window.":

Vera on the floor with her back against the bed. The phone lights her face. A contact: MOM. She presses it.

Far away, in another morning, it's answered.

MOTHER (V.O.): (filtered) Vera? Honey?

Vera opens her mouth. Nothing comes.

MOTHER (V.O.): Vera?

She ends the call. The screen goes dark.

It sets up "No. Neither could I." in 98.

78 EXT. VERA'S APARTMENT BUILDING, CORRIDOR - DAWN

Revised.

- After your scene description:

Jack at Vera's door. He doesn't knock. He sets Daniel's notebook on the mat, squares it to the door, and goes.

83 INT. CHAIRMAN'S OFFICE, KUROSE DEVELOPMENT - DAY

Revised.

- Was KUROSE: You have his eyes. He looked at people the... Now KUROSE: He sat where you're sitting. He looked at me the way you are. As if I'd done something. (Vera's "Did you?" now answers it.)
- Was KUROSE: What is it you want? Money is vulgar. But... Now KUROSE: What is it you want? — He takes a plain envelope, thick with cash, from a drawer and lays it on the glass between them. She doesn't look at it.
- Before VERA: It's very clean. — On her way out, Vera stops at the model. Where the Hive stood, there's only the white plaza. Tiny painted people cross it.

84 INT. THE HIVE, NOODLE SHOP STOREROOM - NIGHT

Revised.

- After "The futon, folded now.": On it, a neat stack of drawings, dried flat, their edges rippled from the wet floor.

86 INT. KANEKO'S NOODLE COUNTER - CONTINUOUS

Revised.

- After KANEKO: Up. Through the back. The stairs by the dentist....:

VERA: I know them.

Jack looks at her.

88 INT. THE HIVE, PASSAGES - CONTINUOUS

Revised.

- After DARK.:

In the black, Vera's hand finds the wall, low, where a child's hand would reach. She starts to move. Jack follows the sound of her.

89 INT. THE HIVE, STAIRWELL - CONTINUOUS

Rewritten.

Pitch black. A narrow concrete stair.

Vera climbs by touch, one hand on the wall. Her other hand finds Jack's and pulls him up after her.

Halfway up, she stops. Takes the lighter out of her pocket. Her thumb on the wheel.

Below them: boots. A flashlight beam crawls up the wall and falls away.

She puts the lighter back unlit, and climbs.

90 INT. THE HIVE, THROUGH THE ROOMS - CONTINUOUS

Revised.

- Before your scene description:

Vera leads them to a door with a sumo match murmuring behind it. It opens before she can knock: the OLD WOMAN from 55.

Then as written, from the old woman's room.

94 EXT. POLICE STATION / INT. BLACK SEDAN - CONTINUOUS

Rewritten.

At the foot of the steps, a black sedan waits at the kerb, engine running, wipers going.

The rear door opens from inside. Warm amber light. Leather.

Ishida stops in the rain. He looks back up at the station, at one lit window on the second floor where somebody is still working.

From inside the car, a man's clean hand holds out a cup of tea. The watch from the model.

Ishida gets in. The door closes. The rain is suddenly very far away.

No dialogue.

97 EXT. THE HIVE - MORNING

Cut.

- HARADA's "He left a statement. He acted alone." and "That is what the police say it says." move to 98, in Vera's mouth.

- Kurose being taken in for questions moves to the television in 100.
- “Men like...” is dropped.

98 EXT. ROOFTOP OF JACK'S BUILDING - DAY

Revised.

- After JACK: Gone. It should have gone twenty years ago.:

VERA: Ishida left a statement. He acted alone.

JACK: Is that what it says?

VERA: That's what the police say it says.

99 EXT. THE HIVE - DAY

Cut. Folded into 99A.

99A EXT. THE PLAZA, WHERE THE HIVE WAS - DAY

Rewritten.

Months later. Winter light, thin and clear. No rain.

The white plaza from the model, built. Real people cross it now, exactly like the painted ones. A strip of new grass. A bench nobody sits on.

Nothing marks where anything was.

100 INT. KANEKO'S NEW COUNTER - NIGHT

Rewritten.

A tiny place in a brick railway arch near the station. Six new stools, the same height as the old ones. Steam.

A train goes over. The bottles tick against each other and settle.

On a shelf above the door, a small old television with the sound down: the evening news. KUROSE walking into a building between lawyers, cameras flashing, his face composed. A photograph of ISHIDA in uniform. Then the weather.

Nobody looks up.

Kaneko ladles. JACK sits on the second stool. The third is empty.

The curtain in the doorway moves. VERA.

She stands a moment. Counts the stools. Sits on the third.

Kaneko sets a bowl in front of her. Vera eats. All of it.

She puts money on the counter. Too much. Kaneko looks at it, then at her, and leaves it where it is.

Past the curtain: a lit window, a radio through a wall, the city going on.

HOLD on the three of them in the steam.

FADE OUT.

Sound and camera

Seven close-ups, two music cues and two rule breaks, fixed on the page so the animatic follows them.

Close-ups: seven, and no others.

1. The hair clip skittering under the shelf (2)
2. Mara replaying Vera's voicemail (20)
3. DANIEL VOSS on the flyleaf (63)
4. The drawings in the water (71)
5. Jack's unwashed hands (77)
6. Vera reading "Today Jack signed the report." (79)
7. The lighter, unlit (89)

Kurose's "It's just a face" (83) plays wide.

Music. No score before 75. It enters as the crossing melody ends, and comes back once, at the end of 100.

Rule breaks. Scene 75 is the only time the city has no other lives in it: no people, no lit windows, no radio through a wall. Scene 98 is where the rain stops, and it stays stopped. Every exterior before 98 is wet, including 27 and 28.

Title

NEONNOIRE sells the glossy neon Tokyo of other films; your page describes sodium, fluorescent and patient rain. Four titles from the film's own words:

- After the Last Train: Kaneko's summons in 18, the night Jack finds Mara.
- The Third Stool: the father's seat, and the last image.
- Shitsurei Shimasu: the politest words in the film, said before the killings.
- Patient Rain: from your first line of action.

Recording pickups

Ten already-voiced scenes need pickups, one of them only a re-read. Every other new line falls in a scene that isn't voiced yet.

Scene	Who	Line to record
6	Vera	"Normal," re-read faster, if the take doesn't already play it that way
10	Jack	"Who calls me that?"
11	Ishida	"Go to sleep, Jack. You found enough twenty years ago."
14	Jack	"She wasn't planning to disappear."
14	Vera	"Take this too. It's mine. She stole it."
20	Mara	"Is she okay? Is she -- does she know..." (was Jack's)
20	Mara	"They have my purse. My passport. They know my name..."
22	Vera	"A man wrote to me last week. He said Dad didn't do it. He said the police knew."
27A	Vera	"Show me where."
29	Mrs. Sakai	"Even after he left, the receipts kept coming here."
36	Jack	"The coast. An inn off the highway."
64	Okada	"The girl?" and "You said that about my daughter."
64	Jack	"Safe. Tomorrow it'll be over."

Scenes 1 and 12 only lose lines. Vera's voicemail (now in 20) and Kaneko's "Everything is going. We are just slower." (now in 17) can be lifted from the recording of the cut 13. The one word in the killer's earpiece in 2 can be sound design.
